

New Year's Eve At The Greenhouse

(continued from page 1)

white tuxedo trimmed with brown velvet lapels, bow tie and cummerbund, and a ruffled shirt. His wife, Dorothy, was chic in a wine satin gown with a matching long coat. The most dazzling couple was Janet and Bill Ditman. Janet wore a white serge tuxedo with satin lapels, a black sequined bow tie, and topped her outfit with a fedora. Bill was resplendent in a blue ruffled shirt, a grey tuxedo with black velvet lapels and a black velvet vest.

Satin was the most popular fabric and Linda Cuffman wore a white satin tunic. Bruce Cameron wore a taupe tux trimmed with brown velvet and Lois had on a magnificent tiered gown of floral pleated chiffon. The bottom layer could be detached to make it into a street length cocktail dress. Jane Ellis wore plum satin and Libby Wood was in a striking aqua velvet pantsuit with a silver sequin and pearl neckline.

Bennett Driscoll had on a traditional tuxedo and Betty was in a brown satin charmeuse. Bobbi Cox glittered in a black and silver metallic fabric gown. Claire Gavin was in a black silk crepe de chine sheath with red spaghetti straps and a multi-colored border. Don Kennedy's wife wore a luxurious peach georgette gown tiered with delicate beige lace ruffles. Jake Powers was very sporty in his Hatherly Country Club blazer. Bruce Cameron took pictures of the couples as they arrived at the Greenhouse, so they would have a permanent memento of the occasion.

Many of the party-goers made New Year's Eve resolutions, some traditional, others original. Mysteriously, Mary Kennedy made a resolution "never to do that again," but Claire Gavin vowed "to do it again". Bob Raffa's was to "stay healthy in the new year", and Ginny Delaney decided to "have more family discussions rather than communicating on an emotional level." Don Kennedy, of a third generation Cohasset family, wanted to "live in Cohasset a few more years."

Andrew Foster declared "I have no resolutions - I'm perfect in every way." Dr. Pozatek's wife decided to "be nice to my in-laws" and Jerry and Regina Schultz would "not have any more babies in 1979." Marily Fessler, fresh from the latest Patriot's game, resolved to "give up going to Patriot's games (until next year)" while her husband Dick is "going to give up elderberry wine." Ginny Johnson is "going to get organized" and Wayne Barcomb will "try to stay warm this winter."

The Greenhouse was dressed in holiday decorations with large pine wreaths tied with red bows, gaily colored balloons, copper kettles filled with greens and baskets of red pointsettias.

NEW YEAR'S celebration is marked; at the Green House Restaurant by festive group while the "formally" attired gals behind the bar keep the cheer flowing.

No Need to Take Your Savings to the SOUTH or to the EAST

COHASSET SAVINGS BANK

will pay

10.45%

Effective Annual Yield

9.80%

Current Annual Rate

On Six Month Money Market Certificates*
with interest compounded continuously Rate in effect January 4, 1979 to January 10, 1979

And we continue to offer the highest legal limit interest rates on all other types of savings accounts to meet your individual needs

*Minimum deposit $10,000. The rate is an annual rate but the maturity is 26 weeks and the rate may be changed on renewal. Government regulations call for substantial penalties for early withdrawals. The offer may be changed or withdrawn at any time.

For More Information contact us at one of our two convenient locations:

COHASSET VILLAGE OFFICE
13 Elm Street
Cohasset
383-1882

BOUND BROOK OFFICE
400 Gannett Road
North Scituate
545-6100

DISCO-ing in the New Year at Green House party are this couple who show how the latest rage is done.

[Gregg Derr photos]